Overview

West Midlands Rwanda Community Association commemorates those who suffered and were murdered during the 1994 Tutsi Genocide, and creates awareness of more recent genocides. It provides a focus for reflection on the repercussions of the inequality on society. It also provides an opportunity to examine issues such as racism, discrimination and intolerance; to challenge and shape society's attitude towards prejudice; and to celebrate the benefits of an all inclusive, tolerant and multicultural society which values human dignity and good citizenship.
